N.B. The numbers in the second Column denote the time in hours and quarters of hours occupied in travelling from the Quinta do Forrester (Rua do Regoa) to any of the places opposite those numbers.
The Author's property at S. Christovão is called "Quinta das Aguias" or "of the Eagles."

Observations.

The Vintage generally begins about the end of September and concludes about the 10th October.
The new wines are brought down to Oporto chiefly in March and April.
During July, August, and September the river is seldom navigable, owing to the drought.
& in December, January and February, the navigation is rendered difficult by the freshes, which usually take place at that season.
The extreme length of the Wine District is eight Leagues.
The extreme breadth of the Wine District is three Leagues.

Observations.

The whole Wine District is very unwholesome & thinly populated.
According to the census concluded in March 1849, the number of Houses in the Wine District of the Alto Douro was 16283, being in the Province of Traz os Montes 11437
in Beira Alta 4163
in Beira Baixa 683 16283
In the towns without the limits of the Company's district, there were in LAMEGO 1858
in Villa Real 1006
in S. João da Pesqueira 593
in the remaining & smaller towns 1897 5354
The total number of Houses, therefore, in the Country comprised within this Map was 21847

The soil about the Vines is turned, and the grapes are trodden, entirely by Gallegos, of whom about 8000 are employed at each season; but they remain only during the period of their labour ..... The grapes are cut by women and children, from the adjacent country, of whom great numbers find employment during the vintage. ..... The only work done by the resident Farmer is the pruning of the vines!
